

COMPLUTENSE-LISBON MEETING IN ANALYTIC PHILOSOPHY

(July 2-3, 2019, Madrid, Complutense University of Madrid)

July 2

11:00-12:00: Ricardo Santos (University of Lisbon): Thoughts on the Overdetermined Future

12:00-13:00: Diogo Santos (University of Lisbon): Sequences and their Acts: the Non-disaggregation Principle Explained

Lunch

15:00-16:00: Luis Fernández Moreno (UCM): A Re-evaluation of Putnam's View on Reference Change

Coffee Break

16:30-17:30: Paula Luz Atencia Conde-Pumpido (UCM): A Pluralist Interpretation of Thomas Kuhn's Philosophy of Science

17:30-18:30: Jose Ramón Hernández Mateos (UCM): Some Remarks on the Nature of Color

July 3

11:00-12:00: José Manuel Mestre (University of Lisbon): Russell's Early Theory of Propositions

12:00-13:00: Antonio Blanco Salgueiro (UCM): Linguistic Relativity, Ordinary Language, and Speaker's Meaning

Lunch

15:00-16:00: Stefano Cazzanelli (UCM): The Question of Givenness. A Criticism of Husserl's Phenomenology

Coffee Break

16:30-17:30: Andrés Rivadulla Rodríguez (UCM): Conceptual Innovation. A Vindication of the Context of Scientific Discovery

17:30-18:30: David Yates (University of Lisbon): Multilevel Explanation and the Causal Closure of the Physical

Location
Complutense University of Madrid
Faculty of Philosophy
Plaza de Menéndez Pelayo, s/n
Ortega y Gasset Room

Coordinator: Luis Fernández Moreno
Sponsored by the Vice-Rectorate for Planning and Institutional Evaluation and the Department of Logic and Theoretical Philosophy