

Call For Applications

PHYSIS Winter School 2020

The Theory of Categories

February 10-13, 2020. Complutense University of Madrid

PHYSIS: The Research Group in Analytic Metaphysics invites graduate students and early career researchers in philosophy to apply to participate in the PHYSIS Winter School 2020: The Theory of Categories to be held at Complutense University of Madrid from February 10-13, 2020.

The four lectures are:

February 10: Existence and Truth: Against the Truth-Maker Approach

February 11: Ontology as Empirical Science

February 12: Ontology of Meaning and Understanding

February 13: Ontology of Time and Change

Successful applicants will participate in the discussion of the lectures and workshops on two central topics of ontology: The Task of Ontology and The Metaphysics of Generality. Applicants should submit a 300 words abstract no later than January 17th, 2020. Submissions should be prepared for blind review. Author's information should be included only in the email.

PHYSIS Summer Schools encourage especially submissions from women researchers, junior scholars, and underrepresented minorities.

Keynote Speaker

Erwin Tegtmeier (University of Mannheim)

Location

Faculty of Philosophy

Plaza de Menéndez Pelayo, 4

Ortega y Gasset Room

Complutense University of Madrid

Madrid, Spain

Important Dates

Deadline for submission of applications: January 17th, 2020

Notification of accepted applications: January 18th, 2020

PHYSIS Winter School Dates: February 10-13, 2020

There is no registration fee to participate in the PHYSIS Winter School 2020, and registration is not required, but is appreciated for organizational purposes.

For further details or queries please contact Javier Cumpa (jcarteseros@ucm.es).